WHO WE ARE

Great Old Broads for Wilderness is a national grassroots organization, led by women, that engages and inspires activism to preserve and protect wilderness and wild lands.

OUR STORY

Conceived in 1989 by a group of feisty older women, Broads give voice to millions of Americans who want to protect America's public lands. We bring knowledge, commitment, and humor to the movement to protect our last wild places on Earth.

WHAT WE DO

Using education, advocacy, stewardship, and fun, we stand up for public lands across the U.S. with nearly 40 Broadband chapters in more than 17 states from the Pacific Northwest to Colorado to Maine. We are one of the few women-led organizations known for our training programs that prepare, inspire, and support women to take a leadership role as advocates for America's public lands and waters.

NON-PROFIT 501(C)(3)

We are funded through memberships, grants, donations, and our Wild for Wilderness Online Auction, which generated more than $46,000 in 2021.
