

photo by George Jones

BIGHORN SHEEP MONITORING

Historically, bighorn sheep were widespread and abundant in Colorado. Today's remnant herds are at risk - in large part due to respiratory disease outbreaks associated with exposure to domestic sheep. Help agencies make scientifically based land management decisions by reporting your observations of bighorn sheep, especially those seen near domestic sheep.

YOU CAN HELP!

mountainstudies.org/bighorndetails

Questions? Email artemis@mountainstudies.org

photo credit Steve Adams

SHARE YOUR OBSERVATIONS

Please report any sightings of bighorn sheep by uploading a photo to iNaturalist.org.

Scan to upload

Report all sightings of bighorns near domestic sheep to the area biologist of CO Parks and Wildlife:

Durango	970.375.6714
Monte Vista	719.587.6905
Montrose	970.252.6051
Gunnison	970.641.7888

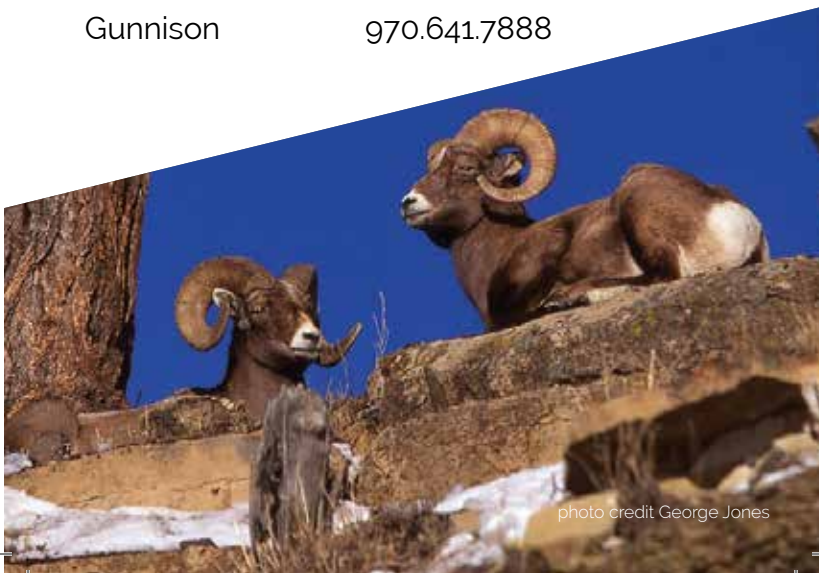

photo credit George Jones